Affected Flow version: FLOW3 1.0.1
Subject:	Function getObjectByIdentifier of Generic PersistenceManager not complete

Description

class: TYPO3\FLOW3\Persistence\Generic\PersistenceManager
method:getObjectByIdentifier
line: 207

code:

    $objectData = $this->backend->getObjectDataByIdentifier($identifier);

the method call to `getObjectDataByIdentifier` must also send the $objecttype

    $objectData = $this->backend->getObjectDataByIdentifier($identifier,$objectType);

NOTE:
why is the $objectType default set as `NULL` and not just a required argument?

[BUGFIX] getObjectByIdentifier() does not pass $objectType to backend

The parameter is optional and historically unused in Generic persistence, but still it should be passed along.

True, it should be passed to the backends, in case it is needed there.

The reason it is optional is that in Generic persistence we did not need it, but we do need it for Doctrine. So we made it optional and check it as needed in the implementation.
